Employment

Firetoss.com - Salt Lake City, Ut, March 2016 - October 2019

During my time at Firetoss I primarily worked as a senior developer building custom wordpress themes tailored to fit the unique needs of each project. Initially, I joined as the most junior member of the development team, and after some structural changes I was put in charge of the development department. I spent over a year hiring, managing, and training a team of developers fresh out of code camp. After a while we brought on our Director of Development who revamped our process to include a more streamlined git flow, the laravel blade engine for our wordpress templates, along with implementing ES6 in our regular flow, all controlled and deployed using the wp-cli. My last 8 months was split between web development and operating Firetoss's applicant lead generation platform for trucking companies DriveTrucking. While in this position I was in charge of improving the product and general business model, along with building email campaigns and sourcing leads for our department by scraping data from available sources.   Director of Development - Spencer Merrit: 801-809-7789
